Three words that have gone 'out of fashion': Fudgel To "fudgel" means pretending to work without actually accomplishing anything. "Gilbert spent Friday afternoon fudging at his desk, while counting down the hours until the weekend." Lanspresado A "lanspresado" is someone who conveniently shows up without any money. "There's no excuse for lanspresados, now that everyone has a credit card/ApplePay." Frobly-mobly "Frobly-mobly" means exactly how it sounds: so-so, feeling neither well nor unwell. "At best, Dave was feeling frobly-mobly that morning. Then, he had a coffee."	"We are not the makers of History. We are made by History."  Martin Luther King Junior This line was written in a sermon from his book Strength to Love (1963)
